Chamber Committee Seeks Aid of Auditor in Solving of Tax Problem.

DATA READY IN TEN DAYS

Chairman Cannon Thinks Model Measures Will Be Ready for Convention in July.

and the Wisconsin-Kansas school of tax men to which he belongs?
This is the big problem to which the legislative committee of the chamber has addressed itself since it took up the work last January of drafting a tax reform bill designed to remedy the inequalities and discriminations worked by the laws now in force. The daily growth of the tax reform wave and insistent demand for reform as evisistent demand for reform as evi-depend by the popularity of the subject at public gatherings of all kinds, makes at public gatherings of all kinds, makes the committee's work of immediate interest to the business men of Virginia.
"We are not wedded to any particular plan of tax reform," said Chairman Arthur M. Cannon, of the Chamber of Commerce committee on legislation, last night. "At present we are engaged in the securing and tabulating of a large amount of data from the office of the Auditor of Puvite Accounts. The work has been temporarily balled by

of the Auditor of Puvic Accounts. The work has been temporarily halted by the illness of Mr. Fowell, of the Auditor's office, who has been aiding us in compiling the figures, but it will be resumed shortly."

The required data, said Mr. Cannon, will probably be ready for submission to the committee in about ten days. With these figures before it, he said, the committee will proceed at once to the task of framing a measure to relieve the disabilities which the data reveal, unhampered by preconceived notions of segregation, centralization or other theoretical formula. If its investigations justify, said Mr. Cannon, the committee will not hesitate to recommend segregation, despite the fact that the idea is distasteful to certain tax reformers. If centralization and equalization and equalization and equalization against the secretary of the said that the idea is distasteful to certain tax reformers.
